Euro Python Conference 2009

Partner Programme

For the partners accompanying the Euro Python Conference 2009 the non-technical team – Sheila, Jutta and Mary – have prepared a suggested programme.

All the events are for locations that do not charge an entry. However, chocoholics might prefer to visit Cadbury World on the Thursday, rather than Blakesley Hall. Partners wishing to visit Cadbury will need to book – details below.

Birmingham is fairly well serviced with local buses and it is possible to purchase daysavers for individuals and groups of individuals for use on the National Express West Midlands buses (the largest bus company).

Individual daysaver - £3.30
Family daysaver   - £6.50 – up to 6 people, no more than 2 adults
Daysaver 5   - £6.50 – up to 5 people

Tuesday 30th June 2009

Jewellery Quarter

Morning: a visit to a number of historical sites, including two museums. Two walking trails. Lots of individual jewellers who will make pieces specially for you.

http://www.jewelleryquarter.net/

Afternoon: an opportunity to visit the numerous jewellery shops in the quarter

Wednesday 1st July 2009

Birmingham Museum and Art Gallery

Admission free

Morning: a visit to the Museum and Art Gallery. There are three exhibitions:

Across the square from the conference venue
http://www.bmag.org.uk/

    Art of David Cox
    The Supremes
    Matthew Boulton

Afternoon: Bull Ring shopping!

Thursday 2nd July 2009

Blakesley Hall

Morning: Timber-framed mediaeval farm house. Visitor centre with children's activities.
½ day activity.

or

Cadbury World

Lots of chocolate
Just over ½ day activity.

Admission free

Bus 11a/11c/11e, 96, 97

Admission charge

Bus 11
Train to Bournville
http://www.cadburyworld.co.uk/CadburyWorld/Pages/CadburyWorld.aspx
Tickets need to be pre-booked and have a timed entry.

£13.40 – adult
£10.10 – children
£10.30 – students, senior citizens

Afternoon: free time

For more information please contact mem.1657@gmail.com.